SYDNEY G. PIERCE

Orleans, Mass.
March 12, 1961

Class of 1961
Nauset Regional High School
Orleans, Mass.

Dear Students:

The prospect of your yearbook is a pleasant one. In this volume is recorded much of the life of our school. Perhaps in no other way is so much of our spirit and personality captured and preserved. For years to come one may return to these pages and relive some of the events noted, renew the friendships recalled, review perspectives, and then turn forward again, smiling.

The yearbook is also of interest because it is a record of concerted and cooperative effort. It is an undertaking that requires much time and energy, and it both demands and reflects the talents and devotion of our students.

I am pleased to have this opportunity to express appreciation to those who have worked hard in this activity and to extend best wishes to the Class of 1961.

Yours very truly,

Sydney G. Pierce

Class History

Here we are limping down the road to reality, limping from the bangs and bruises of our elementary school days. These were the days of endless recesses, hikes, and fun. Now look at us; we all have complexes. After twelve years of packing cavities with morsels of knowledge let's take a break and look back on some of these years.

For most of us the seventh and eighth grades were the beginning of a new school life, new faces, new worries, and a little bit of work, and responsibility. These years proved to be trying ones. As I look back, I think it was harder on the teachers.

Remember when. . .

We had our picnic at Brewster Park and Mr. Smith spent all day ducking marshmallows. . .

We had the dancing lessons where everybody discovered they had two left feet. . .

We put on the play "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and we all became stars. . .

Our Freshman year we embarked on the last leg of our high school journey. These were the days when we went strutting down the corridors like Grecian Warriors. If you think the teachers had a difficult time with us in the seventh and eighth grades, you should have seen them at the end of the Freshman year.

Remember when, under the administration of Arthur Fancy, President, Gene Schofield, Vice-President, Meredith Fancy, Treasurer, Janice MacArthur, Secretary. . .

An apple for the teacher on his desk went over big, but we found out when you try it on the stage it doesn't work. . .

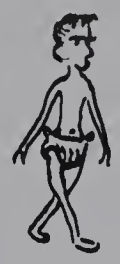
Dr. Brooks walked across his desk to prove a point during 1st year Latin class. . .

Instead of having a pie eating contest, Mrs. Blake officiated at a tack sitting contest between Dick Stevenson and Nicky Snow. . .

We found out "why a mouse is when it spins. . . the higher the fewer, of course". . .

Mrs. Duganer had her little "lovelies" skipping across the gym floor. . .

Meanwhile back at the mud flats under the administration of C. R. Lewis, President, John Rogers, Vice-President, Carol Davis, Treasurer-Secretary, remember when. . .



David Daisy walked around the audience in diapers at our Freshman reception. . .

Brian Blakeley, running up the stairs, tripped on the last step to land at the feet of the principal. . .

We started sit down tag? Between classes the halls were lined with people sitting on the floor. . .

We had Ping Pong tournaments? Well, that's the way the ball bounces. . .

The Sophomore year was easy going. Now that we had become adjusted to the high school, we started raising cain; you know what I mean. Elections were big things this year. In Orleans we elected Gene Schofield, President, Amy Hooper, Vice-President, Barbara Chase, Secretary, and Gay Henry, Treasurer. The counterparts in Wellfleet were C. R. Lewis, President, Chandler Crowell, Vice-President, John Rogers, Treasurer, and Carol Davis, Secretary.

Remember when. . .

Livingston's and the Pharmacy had a rush business on classic comic books the last week of our summer vacation. . .

The girls decided they looked jazzy in sac dresses. . .

Mr. Lavery found our class to be an unpredictable EXPLOSIVE group. . .

We won the play competition with lines like "Curses foiled again" spoken by our celebrated actor, Wayne Carron, in "Her Fatal Beauty". . .

We put on a Freshman reception: pie throwing, diaper wearing, family portrait. . .

Detentions were the fad. . .

Somebody put a thumbtack in Mr. O'Brien's chair. . .

We were constantly being frisked for squirt guns. . .

Some of the boys were caught pitching pennies in the boy's room. . .

Our Junior year we all entered a new school, Nauset Regional High School. This was a get acquainted year. There were new faces everywhere you turned - but they didn't outnumber the new rules and new traditions. This was a very busy year with the Junior Prom, Beatnik dance, play, and, last but not least, driver training. However, as you see, we lived through it. We prospered pretty well under the guidance of our class officers: Gene Schofield, President, Amy Hooper, Vice-President, Jane Winchester, Secretary, and Nancy Lee, Treasurer.

Agnes Carey tried to pick bay berries in the driver-ed car. . .

We suffered through our play "Dad Takes a Rest Cure". . .

Chlorine poisoning was a fad in chemistry class. . .

John Rogers put a pair of dice in the centrifuge. . .

Fred Walters started a new career of puns in Current History. . .

Our Senior year all our dreams and expectations were shattered, our ego deflated, and our rebellion squelched.

This was the great year of awakening. This was perhaps one of the most important years in our lives, and were we prepared? Yup. We have been tossed out into a cold, cruel world with a tooth brush and a fresh pair of socks. . .

Cynical though we may be, we can still look back and laugh. Can't we?

Remember when. . .

Mr. Guarino started a new fad - arm slings. . .

Mr. O'Brien started teaching marriage and family living in Physiology? He got a new name, blushing boy. . .

The tree lights at the Senior Prom wouldn't light. . .

We had a man crying in the audience at our Senior Play "Our Town". . .

Some kids thought exlax would add something to the fudge for Valentine's Day. . .

We learned what a privilege is. . .

We elected Dick Stevenson, President, Amy Hooper, Vice-President, Glorianne Perreault, Secretary, and Susan Rock, Treasurer. . .

We learned all about Hollywood. . .

Well, enough hilarity, back to our pessimistic thoughts. We feel we have been amply endowed and now it is up to us. We leave feeling, I hope, that we have given our best.

Class Prophecy

Poor George Morin is not with us anymore. Seems he, by mistake, climbed into one of the space rockets at Cape Canaveral, and, contrary to popular belief, it actually worked. They haven't figured out how to get him back yet.

We understand that Wayne Anderson, now in the Navy, can tell you all you want to know about seasickness.

Saw where there was a riot the other day at a Rock 'n Roll show. The big star was none other than our classmate Danny Ireland drumming away.

Sally Rogers, working as a missionary in Africa, has run into a little problem. Seems that all the Natives can say is, "I don't understand."

Non-inspired by former Physiology classes, Richard Sparrow had recently been elected president of the local "A. A." He never could make those figures balance.

Nancy Sproul, singer of many talents, is now in Switzerland on tour. I wonder if she plans to take up Swiss Yodeling.

Saw where Dick Stevenson didn't pass his Army physical. As near as we could tell, the cause of the failure was uh huh! Those elbows again.

Peggy Tulloch, head nurse at Washington's "Foot in Mouth" Disease Hospital, when asked about her tremendous success, was quoted as saying, "Experience is the best teacher."

Our architect, Larry Vanderburgh, is reportedly working on his version of the model high school--swimming pool, TV room, and student smoker are innovations.

While watching a football game on TV, I heard a loud voice in the crowd. Could it have been Jane Winchester?

News has just been received that Eileen Berrio had given her endorsement to a diamond-shaped trampoline. I guess those Nauset days were remembered.

Camilla Besse's desire to be a foreign secretary has now been realized. I read in the Oracle the other day that she's now down in Provincetown.

Reading in "Ripley's Believe It or Not" the other day, I saw that Richard Bessom, noted member of the "weed" club, has given up smoking for good.

Great Guns! Brian Blakeley has finally succeeded in securing a job on the production line of "Souped-Up Cars, Inc." as an apprentice in the muffler division.

Congratulations to Agnes Carey for inventing the "add an inch" heel -- a do-it-yourself kit.

Wayne Carron, '65 graduate of Princeton, has just joined the teaching staff of Nauset as assistant to Dr. Brooks in Current History.

We read in "Variety" some time ago that Barbara Chase, noted song leader who gained her experience leading N. R. H. S.'s Tuesday assemblies, has begun her own TV program in competition with Mitch Miller.

It was good to here that Nancy Cole is having much success as a singing evangelist around the world. Coming back to Cape Cod, Nance?

We must all congratulate Dave Daisy, who won first prize at the costume ball the other night. Seems he went as an illuminated Budweiser sign.

Here's a feature from the pages of Sport's Illustrated telling about basketball's newest star, none other than our own Chan Crowell. I bet he's proud that he finally made the papers.

Hilda Rego is trying to decide whether or not to forsake the French language for Russian.

Helen Pearson is still receiving royalties from her patent on her invention --the five flavored sundae.

The O'Hara's, pleased with Ginny's success as a teacher, have recently moved to Bridgewater to join her there.

Brad Nickerson, jet pilot of wide fame, was quoted the other day as saying the reason he liked flying was because there was no speed limit.

Mary Reed has finally yielded to an easy job - smiling for Colgate advertisements. How's Mr. Tooth Decay these days, Mary?

If you should see Nancy Lee, be sure to tell her that there is a job opening as a secretary (private, no less) working for the Man of men, "Pinky Lee."

Donna Moore's bowling is finally paying off. We watched her do quite well the other day on TV. Incidentally, she is now "Queen of the Hill."

Jack McPhee is hard to recognize these days with that bandage on his head. Seems an irrate A & P customer broke what he claimed to be an unripe watermelon over Jack's head.

Karen Leonard was recently fired as secretary to the Maple Grove High School Guidance Director, because she got caught giving the students advice on the fine arts of ducking showers in gym class.

Harriet Knowles is now using a variation of the Nauset special sandwich in her job as a dietician for the Navy.

We were sorry to hear that Anne Knowles, famed employee of the First National, is now in the hospital suffering from a severe case of "Green Stampitis."

Bill Kennedy, inspired by his role in "Our Town" is now understudying the local undertaker.

Jim Jones has now become a successful writer for Field and Stream with his latest article, "Protect our friend the Seagull."

Wayne Joseph has finally succeeded in repairing the fence at the Town Center.

Seems that Janet Huntley just can't stay away from taking other people's money. She's now taking an active part in the local Department of Internal Revenue. That is, the accounting part.

What's this we hear about Edith Gregson striking a wrong key while teaching her first graders to sing "Three Blind Mice?"

Read an article on sign painters, seems our own Linda Gregory is now in that field. She paints signs for libraries saying "Quiet Please."

What's this about Gay Henry transferring to Radcliff in hopes that she can be J. F. K.'s personal accountant?

Sue Rock, as a dental hygienist, finds music soothes patients. Her only difficulty - blowing the trumpet and using the drill simultaneously.

John Rogers, of all people, is a substitute teacher. Finding the shoe on the other foot, John?

Seems David Rose has opened the first school in America on instructing water boys on their duties to the basketball teams. That is, those girls' teams.

Moniz Rose, recently vacationing on the Cape, conducted his third annual art colony in, of all places, Provincetown.

I saw Cindy Ryone listed as Miss Cindy of Romper Room in the TV Guide. And she's still smiling!

Charlie Savage, candidate for the State Police, recently ran into trouble during his finals. Seems he refused to drive over 35, even in the police car.

Read in Newsweek where U. D. T. Man, Gene Schofield, received a medal for bravery above and beyond the call of duty; he rescued a young maiden from a sinking inner tube at Nauset Beach.

We understand Ronnie Wiles has decided to have his limousine painted blue. Do you suppose Brian Monzon will permit such imitation?

What's this about the Priscilla Turner award for a member of the graduating class? Seems it is a combination award of attendance and conduct.

We saw Janice MacArthur and Pat Smith the other day. They look pretty much the same except for signs on their backs reading "Down with Dial" and "Telephone Operators are overworked."

We understand that Joe Wright has been unable to perfect his new car that runs without gas. Keep trying, Joe.

Read an article the other day by two struggling scientists, Dave Daniels and Fred Walters, now working in Bud's Brewery, on the importance of liking one's work.

Saw an ad in Popular Mechanics last month for used auto parts. The buyer? Yup! Don Delaney.

Here's a clipping from the sport's section of the Topeka Tribune telling about Coach Barby Dunsford's great boxing team. We understand they're really "Barrelling" along.

Sandra Dunsford, noted Marine Biologist, is reported to be enjoying her job at Wood's Hole with none other than Colonel Clark.

Glorianne Perreault has recently been a success with her invention of automatic green stamp givers. Seems she finally gave up on all that math work.

Art Fancy, as sports writer for the Standard Times, was recently given some tickets to the World Series. Shame they were for 1959, Art.

Jeanne Whiting has recently confessed to the mysterious accident in Springfield. Seems she was throwing ice cubes out the Sheraton Kimball Hotel window - six floors up - and hit a poor policeman on the sidewalk.

Seems Steve Burling's newest book, "How to Write A Class Prophecy" has met with immediate success. There is an autographed copy in the school library.

Barbara Fickett and Sharon Murphy have come up with gutterless alleys for the Orleans Bowling alleys. Now they're hitting the 90's.

We understand Meredith Fancy's new book, "The Difficulties of English Grammar," has sold well, especially with a certain N. R. English Teacher's students.

Read the other day where Sue Eldridge had quite a time at the Paris custom's office. All she brought with her was, of all things, gum.

We understand Lionel Gill finally got his wish and hit a baseball through the Faculty room window playing for the Town Team.

We also understand our own Amy Hooper, Math Professor extraordinary, chose Australia as the place where she will teach next year. Beware of Mr. Tilly, Amy.

Cynthia Ryone
Stephen Burling

We, the graduating class of 1961, being of sound body and spirit, hope to better posterity by leaving them these, our individual traits:

I, Nancy Cole, leave my ability to keep a straight face and a multi-colored ostrich plume to Shirley MacIntire.

I, Jeanne Whiting, leave my out of tune alto voice to Rosie Flint.

I, Harriet Knowles, leave my shyness to Dottie Huntley.

I, Stephen David Daniels, leave my pre-soccer game vocalizing talents to Pat Boone.

I, Susan Rock, leave my trumpet to the biggest wind-bag in the junior class.

I, Bradford Nickerson, leave my home hair cut kit to Dexter Ellis.

I, Pat Smith, am still recovering from shock.

I, Stephen Burling, leave nothing since I need everything I have.

I, Donna Moore, leavy my home economics skill to Sheila Hill.

I, Mary Reed, leave a smile and a wink to Kathy VanBuskirk.

I, Barbara Chase, leave my newly purchased barrette to Martha Bonnell.

I, Cynthia Ryone, leave my pleasing personality to my Chemistry teacher.

I, Eileen Berrio, leave my math ability to my younger brothers, Charles and Francis.

I, Helen Pearson, leave my brother to Mr. O'Hara.

I, David Rose, leave managing to Chester Norris.

I, Janet Huntley, leave my basketball height to Paula Hatch.

I, Susan Eldridge, leave a piece of gum to Mr. Downie.

I, Richard Bessom, leave 30 feet of rubber on the school parking lot.

I, Sally Rogers, leave a year's supply of questions to Mr. Tilly.

I, Nancy Lee, leave my nickname, "Pinky" to any future Lee.

I, Gay Henry, leave my middle name to anyone who will take it.

I, Bill Kennedy, leave my long dark hair to David Atwood.

I, Brian Monzon, leave my undying devotion to Judy.

I, John Rogers, leave the substitute teachers in peace.

I, Peggy Tulloch, leave Mr. O'Brien with relief.

I, Larry Vanderburgh, leave my honorable membership in the Siam Club to John Stewart.

I, Amy Hooper, leave my seat in death row to Dr. Brook's next victim.

I, Moniz Rose, leave with my sanity.

I, Ann Knowles, leave my seat in Miss Hooker's English Class and my bounding skylark to the next prospective candidate.

I, Camilla Besse, leave my newly invented word, "ostranate," to the school library to be included in the dictionaries.

I, Richard Sparrow, leave 3 inches of my height to David Philbrick.

I, Glorianne Perreault, leave my blush to Mr. Pettingill.

I, Hilda Rego, leave my French accent to Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Downie.

I, Charles Savage, leave my appetite to Jon Fuller.

I, David Daisy, leave my galoshes to next year's Dramatics Club.

I, Barbara Dunsford, leave my weights to Betsy Brooks.

I, Sandra Dunsford, leave my bubbling personality to someone who's destitute.

I, James Jones, leave my annual duck-fever to a hunter in the Junior Class.

I, Wayne Carron, leave my way with girls to Ronnie Blomme.

I, Brian Blakely, leave my yogi bear hat and greasy pants to Andy Pierce.

I, Ronald Wiles, leave by the skin of my teeth.

I, Joseph Wright, leave in my blown, fuel injected, Chevy powered customized Volkswagen.

I, Jane Winchester, leave without saying a word . . . for a change.

I, Fred Walters, leave my witticisms to Leonard Anderson.

I, Gene Schofield, leave.

I, Karen Leonard, leave Mr. Collins with nobody to talk to in sixth period study hall.

I, Jackie McPhee, leave my best duck decoy to Mr. Guarino.

I, Priscilla Turner, leave my nickname Prissy to any one who will have it.

I, Donald Delaney, leave my fine singing voice to Tom Gill.

I, Lionel Gill, leave my basketball fouls to Duane Fulcher.

I, Wayne Anderson, leave some of my height to Minot Reynolds.

The Student Council of Nauset Regional High is a body of students, who meet once a week to discuss problems and ideas which other classmates have brought to them, to give their approval or disapproval on these matters and to voice their opinions on different situations which arise during the school year.

Some of the accomplishments of the council this year have been the following: the forming of the handbook, the submission to the school committee of suggestions for a sign, stating the name and date of establishment, to be placed in front of the school, writing a school song, running the Tuesday morning assemblies, and sending a flag to Mr. Boynton for him to present to the school where he is an exchange teacher.

The Nauset Future Teachers of America, under the guidance of Mr. O'Brien, had a prosperous and interesting year. New members developed new opinions and attitudes towards teaching from informative pamphlets and personal experiences members of the faculty shared with them.

One of the most satisfying opportunities offered to a "future teacher" is the chance to participate in actual classroom instruction.

The students were guides at open house and sold refreshments at the variety show. Perhaps the highlight of the year came when the group was host to the other F. T. A. groups on the Cape.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA

The Nauset Regional Band and Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Frank James, have progressed rapidly and successfully in the direction of being the best on the Cape.

Throughout the year, the groups have played at Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, the Cape Cod Music Festival, and other Cape schools.

Selections by well-known composers have been studied, and several instruments have been added to the groups.

Art Classes

The art department this year has done many varied projects from watercolors to blow painting, from action drawing to scribble drawing. They have helped paint the decorations for the family record hop and the backdrop for the variety show. When the weather warms up, there are plans to do some outdoor sketching.

During the month of March, the annual senior high school art exhibition was held in Hyannis. There were twenty pieces exhibited from Nauset, and three blue ribbons were awarded.

Dramatics Club

The Dramatics Club, organized this year under the direction of Mr. Thomas Downie, was open to all in grades 9-12.

Our first task was the production of "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder. After many hours of rehearsing and with many thanks to Mr. Downie and Mr. Smith, the play was presented on November 18 and 19, 1960. All who took part found it an exciting experience. The Dramatics Club is planning for the future and hoping to present more plays.

GREY WINTER OCEAN

Grey winter ocean,
Sing now your hymns
In rhythmic thunder
On cold and damp sand.

Clash the cymbols
Of spray back to water;
Sing with the wind,
The wind in the backgrass.

Your song is of freedom,
Of spirit unleashed;
Sing to the storm clouds
And lofty cold dunes.

In summer the bolder
Splashed in the surf:
The others just lay
On your beaches and sunned.

The sun on your waters,
You smiled at them then;
But you smiled at them all
And the smile was unmeaning.

At last they are gone
And you're left to yourself
To smile if you choose
Or tumble and roar.

So grey winter ocean,
Sing now your hymns
In rhythmic thunder
On cold and damp sand.

AMERICA, AND OUR INTERNATIONAL RELATIONSHIPS

America's problems, in my estimation, are not new, but instead very remote. They reach back to about the end of World War II. Since then we have begun to feel that we are the people everyone should look up to and respect. Perhaps those are our feelings, but are we being fair in expecting other people, who have been brought up under entirely different theories, to follow us and think that we are doing the right thing? Of course not, and we are going against all our principles if we accept this narrow-minded outlook.

Since the war, we have had several countries, friends and otherwise, tell us that they want the Yankees to go home. Iceland has said it, and Japan has said it; the Middle East, the Far East, and Europe have all made it equally clear.

We may mean no harm, in fact, I'm sure we don't, but it is quite obvious that we aren't exactly worshipped abroad. We seem to have the feeling we are "aiding" these poverty-stricken countries. True, in our narrow point of view, we are, but our gifts are accepted only with suspicion and envy. Why? We are showing them only our wealth, not friendship; friendship cannot be pushed or forced, bought or sold. It can only be offered. Why then can't the United States offer a little REAL friendship to these countries?

GREAT BALLS OF FIRE

Balls of fire have been seen in the sky through-out the Ages. Many thoughts have accompanied their appearance; some of wonder, some of fear.

The Greeks would have thought that Jove was angry, while the Israelites would have welcomed the sight of a ball of fire as a message from God. And if a person of the Middle Ages had happened to see a ball of fire, he would have trembled with fear because he would have thought it a warning, not an omen.

The seventeenth century scientists discovered these balls of fire were comets and that some were meteors which burned when they hit the Earth's atmosphere.

The People of the twentieth century know that balls of fire are not all a phenomena of nature; some are man-made satellites. Satellites could be a powerful weapon of war. So the people of today fear objects in the sky because of the knowledge of them, whereas the people of the earlier time feared them because of ignorance. Are we going back to the time of the Greeks, who were afraid of fire balls and of angering a mightier power?

KING HENRY THE FOURTH

King Henry the Fourth was a sly old soul,
He disposed of King Richard without any toil.
He had a fine son, Harry Monmouth by name,
But Harry had for his friends some men of ill-fame.
Among his low friends was a fat one, Falstaff,
Whose figure was subject to many a laugh.
Jack's greatest ability, although not for the good,
Was lying his way out of all that he could.
Henry was composed and able with mind and hand,
But he needed his son to keep peace in the land.
So he blasted his son with one little motion
And then built him up to a terrible explosion.
Said hot-tempered Harry to his father, "My Lord,
I'll take care of Hotspur with this very sword."
After the battle, leaving Hotspur dead,
With Falstaff and the others in his life was led.
It finally happened that old Henry died,
And Harry became king, putting Falstaff aside.

LIFE

Life can be compared to so many things. Our life is like a tree. A little seed takes root, and it begins to nourish itself beneath the ground. As the days pass by, the roots shoot up above the ground and begin to spread into branches. One main branch forms a trunk and from this trunk little branches emerge. The center of the trunk is composed of a heart or ambition, and it is this heart that keeps these branches growing. Some of the branches fall off and die. Some protect the trunk from winds and rains. But the roots are always there, and the roots never change.

Life is like a brick wall. The wall must be built. In the beginning a foundation is laid, tools are acquired, and later on a blueprint is decided upon. Each accomplishment in life is another brick. At each failure a brick falls. This endless building keeps up until the wall is complete. Some are never complete. Some would tumble at the first wind.

Life can be said to be a night spent in a lighted room. In this room are all the tools, to complete a job. During this night a job must be done. The lights in the room are love, faith, and hope. If any of these lights go out, the job cannot be done. Whatever happens, when the morning comes, the sun shines, and we leave our room to enter the greatest light of all.

Life is like a country road. It is curved and has many turn offs. Some are dead ends and some are opportunity. As you walk down this road, there are many mail boxes. Either these mail boxes are full or empty. Life is like that. Life can be full or empty. It is what you make it.

THE GOOD SAM ARITON

Once upon a time there was a man (actually there were many men, but I'm going to tell you of just one man). However, I'm not too sure of my last statement as I have not decided if Sam was a man. Well, whatever the case, let us proceed. This man's name was Sam Ariton. At the time of this incident he lived in a well-to-do section of the New York Slums. Sam was an apprentice to a rich Switch-Blade sharpener. His main chore was to deliver the articles to their various owners.

Sam's greatest weakness was that he was a nut on humanitarianism. He often paused on deliveries to help a stray cat, find a lost dog, or walk an old lady across the street. Sam has been known to spend his week's wages on parrot food.

Let me proceed to tell you how he received the prefix Good. On March 1, 1950, two prominent gangs, the Hornets and the Bees, had been assigned to stage a rumble at the corner of Peaceful Avenue and Happy Street. This locality consisted of movie theaters, pool rooms, coffee houses, and other honest, or may I say semi-honest as each was a front for a racket, business establishments. At precisely 7:01 our two boys' clubs appeared. The Hornets came to the scene by way of the coffee house, and the Bees arrived from the pool room. After everyone that was not included in the battle had reached cover, the even-sided teams proceeded to whip out their toys: switch-blades, clubs, and home-made pistols. After hearing final strategy, the two groups entered hand-to-hand combat. At 7:30 the two teams retreated, or at least those who could, did. It was rather a mess: the blood in the drains and gutters, raw hunks of meat, and small pieces of skin. However, one of the leaders was lying there with just a broken leg.

It just so happens that our friend Sam had been out that night trying to drum up business. When he arrived at the scene, he noticed all the dull, discarded switch-blades. So, like any good apprentice to the business, he picked all the blades up and started toward the shop. When he noticed the guy with the broken leg, he rushed to him and offered assistance. Playing dumb, the leader said he had been attacked by robbers. It also just so happens that the friend with the broken leg was very thankful. It is said that in certain circles, this story turned into a Proverb. It's called the story of the Good Sam Ariton; sometimes slurred, it is pronounced Samariton.

This season the girls' varsity basketball team put forth a great deal of fight and spirit which won them second place in the Lower Cape schools.

The J. V. team was undefeated this season which shows that there is some excellent material for the future varsity teams.

Both teams displayed outstanding teamwork and effort; Nauset can be proud.

Dances

Senior Prom

The Senior Class devoted a great deal of time and effort to the planning and decorating for their gala Senior Prom. It was decided that it would be more beneficial to our treasury if we would limit the cost of the decorations and hold the dance during the Christmas vacation when many of the Alumni would be home from college. Thus, the Senior Prom and Alumni Dance of the class of '61 came into being.

The old gym was transformed into a "Moonlight Fantasy." Silver stars, suspended from midnight blue streamers, surrounded dancing silhouettes. The streamers were drawn together at one point over the stage and a gold half-moon complemented the picture. Pine boughs covered with artificial snow, a small evergreen tree illuminated with blue lights, and sleigh bells all helped to carry out the theme.

The night of December 28, 1960, will remain in the thoughts of all those who attended as a wonderful and enjoyable evening.

Junior Prom

Early in the year, the Junior Class began planning for its largest and most exciting event of the year. A committee was set up, with Janie Winchester as chairman. "Sakuragari Ichi" (Cherry Blossom Time in Japanese) was finally chosen for the name of the prom. Planning for the decorations then began. Being the first junior class in Nauset Regional High, we were lucky enough to be able to have our prom in the new gymnasium. Small white picket fences and an archway, which we adorned with ivy and roses, were obtained for the occasion. These separated the dance floor from the tables, which were partially set on artificial grass. Light and dark blue streamers lowered the ceiling in a shape to give an oriental effect, and a huge parachute was suspended over the band's platform to afford better acoustics. Purchased Japanese lanterns and wind chimes were the finishing touches to the Japanese theme, and beautiful sprays of cherry blossoms, compliments of Mrs. Winchester, made it complete.

At last 8:00 P.M., May 6, 1960, came, and dancing to the music of Mel Von and his band was enjoyed by all.
